

FRANK FARRELL INJURED HERO OF AUTO CRASH

Turfman Ordered Car
Into a Pole to Save
Women Ahead.

Frank Farrell, turfman and baseball manager, is laid up at his home, No. 2 West Ninety-fourth street, to-day with a sprained ankle and a contused hip, as a result of his bravery in risking his life and the lives of his cashier and chauffeur to avoid what would have been a serious collision with an automobile containing women.

After the accident the first automobile sped away, and the occupants made no attempt to find out how badly injured Farrell and the rest of his party were.

The turfman was speeding home from the Aqueduct track in his big touring car. On the rear seat with him was his cashier, George Lester, who carried a basket full of money. The chauffeur was William Schullim. Ahead of the Farrell machine was an automobile containing two men and two women. Both machines were heading along Thompson avenue at a lively clip.

Chose a Collision.

The hat of a man in the forward car blew off and the chauffeur brought his machine to a sudden stop. Farrell's car was so close behind that a collision seemed inevitable. To turn out on either side meant to crash into a telephone pole.

"Take the pole!" shouted Farrell, disengaging his own safety to save the women ahead. The chauffeur obeyed implicitly. The big car hit the pole with fearful impact, rebounding twenty feet and overturning. Lester and the chauffeur leaped and escaped with slight bruises, but Farrell was shot over the front seat and landed in soft mud beside the roadway. Had he struck the pole his life would have been crushed out.

Picked Up Unconscious.

The turfman was unconscious when picked up, but he revived quickly, to discover that his ankle was sprained. The auto he had saved from wreck was impounded and he was hurried to St. John's Hospital, where the physicians found he had sprained his left ankle and received contusions of the hip and many cuts, but no bone was broken. He was taken home early to-day, and it was there that he told of his experience to an Evening World reporter. He seemed much recovered from the accident and said:

"I'll be all right in a day or two, except for the sprained ankle. I'll be able to get around fairly well. I had a narrow escape. There's only one thing about it that causes me annoyance. I have been told that after we smashed into the pole the big red automobile went into the air and fell on the roof of the car."

One's mind, like a sponge, is absorbent. It takes upon knowledge and lore; but one who won't learn is soon branded as uninteresting—a bore.

Of course one can learn by hard study. But there's a much easier way.

TEN RESCUED BY POLICE AT FIRE

Ten persons were saved from death in a burning house at No. 5 East Two Hundred and Fourteenth street early to-day by three policemen.

The house, a two-story frame structure, is just off White Plains road. The first floor was occupied by Domenico Costello and his family and on the second floor were Vincenzo Sereno, his wife and three children, four men, boarders and one woman.

The fire, starting on the ground floor, made the Costellos run to the street. On the arrival of Policemen Ross, Greche and Eperich, all of the Wakefield Station, the ten persons on the upper floor were unconscious from smoke. The policemen carried all of them to the street, and later an ambulance surgeon from Furman Hospital revived them.

The firemen got the flames under control after a comparatively small loss was caused.

Persons who knew me were in cars behind and they helped me. I was unconscious at the time, so I knew nothing of it, but I got it on good authority that the men and women in the rear of the car paid attention to me.

"My chauffeur is not at all to blame for what happened. He has been employed by me for three years and is a careful man. It was by my order that he ran into the pole to avoid crashing into the car ahead. I think we were lucky to get off as well as we did, for it was a long chance we took."

Moody was registered under an assumed name and made every effort to conceal his identity. He would have been successful but for the fact that a tiny newspaper clipping was discovered in his pocket. This referred to the death of Meyer Baum, who killed himself by throwing himself from a building in Maiden Lane.

The identity of Moody was traced down by The Evening World. A mother was informed that her son, whom she had not seen in four years, was hovering between life and death in the hospital side at once went to him. The recognition was mutual. Moody was a strong, healthy man, a few days in a hospital and will at once be committed on the charge of bigamy through the Court of General Sessions.

SHIP WITH 820 ON BOARD IS OVERDUE

Marco Minghetti Should Have Arrived at This Port Last Wednesday.

The steamship Marco Minghetti with 820 passengers, is one week overdue at this port and considerable anxiety is felt for her safety. The office of Hirsch, Feldman & Co., agents for the Florio & Rubattino line, at No. 1 Broadway, has been besieged by relatives of the passengers, but they are unable to give any information.

Sailing from Genoa on March 31 the Marco Minghetti touched at Palermo, Sicily, on April 4. She was due here last Wednesday. No ship arriving in any American or foreign port has reported sighting the Marco Minghetti after she left Palermo.

The weather has been pleasant. Ships leaving Italian ports after the Marco Minghetti sailed have arrived here, and none of them encountered any storms or adverse winds. The only explanation the agents have of the delay is that her machinery has broken down and she is drifting until repairs can be made.

The crew numbers seventy men. There were provisions on board when she left Genoa for the ordinary length of the voyage only, and if the ship has met with an accident to her machinery there is undoubtedly suffering on board because of short rations. The quarters assigned to her passengers were crowded to the limit allowed by law.

The Marco Minghetti is an iron ship. She was built in Glasgow in 1878, and is 120 tons capacity. She is 320 feet long, 36 feet beam, and 25 feet deep, and accounted steady and seaworthy.

Marlborough Club's Entertainment.

The Marlborough Athletic Club will give an annual entertainment at its rooms, No. 322 West Forty-fourth street, on Wednesday evening, for the benefit of the earthquake sufferers. In addition to a strong list of balls, several prominent theatrical performers will appear in the ring and give monologue and musical numbers.

Pneumonia and Consumption Cured

Mr. B. C. Oblinger, a noted inventor of Independence, Mo., has been cured of pneumonia three times by his judicious use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Duffy's also warded off a threatened attack of consumption.

Mr. Oblinger has used Duffy's for over 25 years, and says he could not get along without it. This intellectual gentleman writes as follows:

Independence, Mo., Dec. 12, 1905. I really don't know what I would do if I could not get Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I commenced using it about twenty-five years ago and have been taking a few bottles every winter ever since. Duffy's cured me of pneumonia three times and warded off consumption, with which I was at one time threatened. I now have an expansion of over five inches in the lungs and never feel uneasy, while I can have access to your wonderful medicine. I am always doing everything I can to relieve others of their suffering by recommending Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

B. C. OBLINGER, Inventor.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

It is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic, builds up the nerve system, restores strength and elasticity to the tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings digestion, comfort and makes you feel better from the food you eat all the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for the weak, worked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. Duffy's is the only whiskey that has been recognized as a medicine. This is a guarantee.

BEWARE of dangerous imitations and substitutes. Unscrupulous dealers, mindful of the excellence of this preparation, will try to sell you cheap imitations and malt whiskey substitutes, which are put on the market for profit only, and are positively harmful. Look for the trade mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken. All druggists and grocers, or direct, $1.00 a bottle. Medical booklet free.
